The Book of Daniel not only gave Israel a historical accounting of their national existence, but it also provides Christians with a lot of historical lessons. I hope that we can use the Book of Daniel as a valuable historical sourcebook for Christians of the early first century when they were studying the Bible. In this section of Daniel, we will be looking at a particular story about Daniel and his friends (Daniel 2:4-4:3). In addition to Daniel and his friends, we will also be looking at a group of astrological manipulators who were brought before Nebuchadnezzar in order to give an explanation as to why he had had so many bad dreams. A Jewish historian in the early first century has recorded that the most courageous and faithful leaders of the Jewish nation were thrown into the lions' den because they did not trust King Nebuchadnezzar (2) The specific group of people that Nebuchadnezzar brought before him are from the group of magicians in chapter 2. They were two in number, and each of them had many associates (2:6). Since they are from the same group as Daniel and his friends, their purpose in being brought before Nebuchadnezzar was to tell the king what he was supposed to do with Daniel and his friends. (2)
