The text strings can be dragged and dropped into the main window. They are synchronized with the keyboard keys pressed during the recording process, which makes it possible to create macros for any combination of commands and keystrokes. The mouse keystrokes can also be recorded, and you can simultaneously perform any actions and the corresponding keyboard commands at the same time. You can record up to five simultaneous macros in one recording session. Keyboard macros are very convenient when you have to type a large amount of text that must be sent to the remote server or when you have to perform repetitive actions that need to be done over and over again. Let's say you have to send some data to your web server several times a day. Once you have created a keyboard macro that is similar to the one below: Then, you simply have to enter this text whenever you need to send the data. No need to type or copy-paste it each time, you just press the macro shortcut and enter the text. The software has additional features to enable you to export the macros to a file that can be executed directly from the keyboard. You can also choose to include the time stamps of the keystrokes in the export file. The software records the typed commands and your mouse clicks and marks the recording time with an indicator. The program works in the background and saves the recorded data to an archive. You can play back the recorded data with the help of the built-in screen recorder or the exported file in your system and perform any needed corrections. If you want to stop the recording process, just press a key combination.
