To try to create a shortcut to an action (an effect applied to an image), follow these steps: 1. Choose Edit⇒Define New Shortcut. The shortcut form opens. 2. Type a name for the shortcut. In this case, the name I have entered is place_someone. The name can be anything you want. You can even just type the name of the action you'd like to use. 3. Select an existing or create a new action folder by clicking the arrow to the right of the Create button. You see a list of actions appear on the right side of the box. Select the action you'd like to save as a shortcut to the Action panel. 4. Place the shortcut on the Action panel and select the format for your action. This is where you can decide if you want to save the shortcut as an action script, EPS, PSD, PDF, or MOV file. You can easily locate one of these type of shortcuts. You can change the appearance of any of the shortcuts by editing the properties on them. See the next section for more details on the options. 5. Select the Recompose tool on the Tools panel and click or drag on the image. Recompose is a feature that enables you to move the position of the elements inside an image and adjust their size as needed. If you want to place the actions inside a blank image, you can do that from the Actions panel. See the next section for details on how to work with the Actions panel. 6. Adjust the position and orientation of the image and the size of the elements inside the image. Note that some elements are locked to the canvas. You can click the little locked icon on the left side of each of these elements to move them inside the image if needed. Locking the elements allows you to adjust their positions on the canvas without accidentally moving an element that you didn't want to move. If your canvas is too small to contain all of the elements that you have inside your image, you can increase the size of the canvas to accommodate them. You can also make the main elements in the image as big or small as you want by simply moving the slider bar on the Actions panel. 7. Save your work. 8. Close the shortcut form. 9. Open the file in Photoshop and click Edit⇒Define New Shortcut to

Q: C# Reflection: How to determine the type of an object based on its type name and given type? In C#, given only the type name of an object, and a class T representing some type, is there any way to determine what the original class was, which is the base-class of T? For instance, here is an example: public static T MyObject(string typeName) where T : someOtherClass {
// Now, how to determine that typeName is of type of someOtherClass? // If it was previously determined, use that information. var type = Assembly.GetAssembly(typeof(T)).GetType(typeName); if(type!= null) { // Now, how to determine that typeName is of type of type of someOtherClass? } else { throw new Exception("Unable to locate type: " + typeName); } var type = Assembly.GetAssembly(typeof(T)).GetType(typeName); if(type!= null) { // Now, how to determine that typeName is of type of someOtherClass? } else { throw new Exception("Unable to locate type: " + typeName); } return Activator.CreateInstance(type); } static void Main() { MyObject("SomeOtherClass"); } A: Try this: var type = typeof(T).GetTypeInfo().BaseType; This way will not work for Interfaces etc. Q: Problem with printf in python cgi I am trying to print a value returned from a servlet but it is not printing. It prints the value with printf command in java

Q: Workflow to find SSIS Package of type CreateFolder Task in GIT I have several SSIS packages which are added to GIT manually by some one else and I want to locate the Package in Git. I want to write a SSIS workflow which gives me the list of such packages and when I select any one and run the workflow it should take me to the location where the package is stored. I have found it hard to find the location of such packages. Can anyone help me out. Thanks in advance. A: You can run SSISDB.exe from the command prompt to list the Tasks stored by any given SSISDB. This can be viewed easily from the Browser option under "Operations" by appending? after the server name. If you are running on a dev box, and you have checked in some deployed packages, you can find the location of these packages by viewing the "Deployed Files" property on the "Module Designer" under "Refresh" as described here. If you are running on a server, you have to either download SSISDB.exe and run it locally or request a support person to get it for you. The aim of the endeavor is for the relief and care of Puerto Ricans and others adversely affected by Hurricane Maria, which on September 20 devastated the Island and has led to a humanitarian crisis. It has also put into question Puerto Rican sovereignty. "The Heart for Puerto Rico Campaign is our way of saying, 'Puerto Ricans deserve better,'" said Aimee Alvarez, United We Dream National Political Director. "We know that many have been devastated by Hurricane Maria and have not received needed relief. The federal government has failed to help Puerto Ricans who are being treated as second-class citizens by not doing its duty under the Law of the Sea." "For so many children, this is the last Christmas that they'll see their families in their home country," she added. "We cannot stand by and let them stay in the limbo of uncertainty and devastation." In the House, United We Dream is calling on leaders on both sides of the aisle to hold a full hearing on Puerto Rico. Leaders from United We Dream have signed on to the unanimous resolution. At the national level, multiple organizations will be holding an event on December 13 in the states with
