"I can't say I'm fond of any one of them," said Samuel Owens, 84, a veteran of World War II, the Korean War and Vietnam, standing on the parade route in his home city of Philadelphia in the weeks leading up to the parade. But Mr. Owens, who served in the Army's 75th Ranger Regiment, had a little more to say about President George H.W. Bush — "He's a decent man" — and after learning that Mr. Bush served in the Navy during World War II and the Korean War, and then in the Air Force during the Vietnam War, the rarified air of Mr. Bush's military service begins to come through. "He was a very serious young man," Mr. Owens said. "He was a very disciplined young man. I think he would say the same thing about President Bush. You know, 'Yes, sir,' 'Yes, ma'am.' He said he had never seen a combat soldier. I saw a lot of combat. The best morale officer I ever had was a Navy guy."Q: How to redirect or call API in sub directory in Angular So what I want to do is to submit a form that will update a table on our back-end server. The NHS Covid-19 pandemic is accelerating the development of new screening assays and immunoassays ([@bib0005]) to detect the presence of SARS-CoV-2 in blood as a means of contact-tracing measures to track and isolate spreaders ([@bib0065], [@bib0070]). This includes evaluating samples of whole blood, serum or plasma. We, and others, have also begun to evaluate spiked whole blood and serum for immunoassays in virus isolation and detection assays ([@bib0025], [@bib0060], [@bib0075]). The International Federation of Clinical Chemistry and Laboratory Medicine recently made SARS-CoV-2 detection of virus-spiked blood or serum an emergency item ([@bib0025], [@bib0075]). We have developed a highly sensitive ( $\geq 10^6.5^{\wedge} 50\%$  cell culture infectious dose [CCID<sub>50</sub>-1/ml]) sandwich immunoassay for SARS-CoV-2 spike antigens in blood using a polyclonal antibody (PGL-1) and two monoclonal antibodies (JX10 and EMC2) ([@bib0030], [@bib0040]). Here we report the detection of SARS-CoV-2 spike antigens in whole blood from a series of patients positive for SARS-CoV-2 infection. We also report the cross-reactivity of the PG-1 antibody in spike antigen detection using blood from an otherwise healthy volunteer and confirmed SARS-CoV-2-negative patient. The specificity of the PG-1 antibody for SARS-CoV-2 spike antigen 1cb139a0ed
