What's New In?

Let's have a look at Surf Knight, a small utility which enables parental control on a computer. Unfortunately, it provides no real control over what is blocked, as it doesn't allow you to set-up any lists of URLs that are blocked. Even the security feature which requires you to enter a master password to enable parental control, is not made accessible to you on the first attempt. Furthermore, a couple of annoying messages pop-up when you're trying to access the parental control options. The application also fails to offer a lock screen to keep your kids away from some of the most dangerous online content. This is a pretty small utility which is simply not made to provide enough control over parental controls, or its own security features. If you want to restrict some of your kids from viewing some online content, Surf Knight might be the perfect solution. But before you do that, make sure to check out some of the other parental control utilities available on the web. Program Features: - Blocks programs and webpages with given settings - Blocking options are separated from security settings - Settings are stored on the registry download and install Description: Are you looking for a simple and effective parental control utility that will not only restrict your kids from accessing certain online content, but also keep them away from harmful programs and websites? Surf Knight could be the perfect solution, as it is simple to use, fast to install, and offers a lot of features. How does Surf Knight work? The program was designed to work in the background, and acts as a proxy. By downloading it and registering for free, you make it possible for Surf Knight to connect to an online source and check if your child has visited any forbidden websites, or used a specific program. It will then check if a preset list of URL's is set for blocked, and this is where the process gets really interesting. In case your kid has visited any of those sites, the program will display an error message which will be shown to you before allowing your child to access the site. Surf Knight also comes with a few security features, which are disabled by default. You can enable them, and Surf Knight will prevent your child from accessing websites which are not trusted. Besides all these features, Surf Knight also has a built-in list of URLs which are not allowed. This is set in a single location in the registry, and you can add your own URL's as well, to make sure your kids don't visit those sites. Control settings are separated from security settings, as the application requires a master password to be set, and after this it will be enabled for the rest of the session. Advantages and disadvantages There's not much to say about Surf Knight&rsqu
