A free, open-source, cross-platform, customizable email client supporting a vast array of email providers. Email is one of the most convenient ways to keep in touch with friends and manage your business even if the recipients live in other cities or countries. If you are still browsing the web looking for a specialized application that matches your mailbox requirements, you can try Nylas N1. Familiar-looking email client To make the most of the tool's functions, you first need to select one of the supported email providers, such as Gmail, Microsoft Exchange, iCloud, Outlook.com, Yahoo! or IMAP/SMTP. Regardless of the service you prefer, the username and password need to be entered, and then you should wait until the connection is successfully established. The main window comes with an intuitive graphic interface that does not require you to get adjusted to intricate menus or complex panels. Due to its familiar feel, even novices can manage their inbox or send new email messages within seconds (nonetheless, the initial synchronization might take longer to complete). Support for various developer tweaks While the beginners might be satisfied with the provided feature-set, experts can take things one step further due to the integrated developer tools. You can create plugins from scratch, or you can manually install an existing one, depending on your preferences. Various UI elements can be altered by changing their values directly from the console, whereas profiles, sources or audits can be modified as well. If you want to take advantage of these tweaks yet your programming skills are not top of the line, you can take some to analyze the documentation from the developers' website (no offline Help file is provided). Customizable email client for all types of users No matter if you only use emails to keep in touch with your friends and family, or if your entire business relies on sending and receiving messages in due time, an efficient email client is needed. Nylas N1 can become the go-to app for novices and pros alike since it is intuitive enough not to confuse the former, yet also flexible and adaptable to rise to the expectations of experts. With Nylas N1, A dedicated team of developers created a highly-customizable, open-source email client with tight integration between services and tools. Nylas' unique feature-set focuses on the following categories: Email Support for various developer tweaks Support for various

Mailbox is a personal email and task management app that works across all your devices to organize your email accounts. Whether you use Gmail, Outlook.com, or a different email service, Mailbox can sync your email, contacts, and calendar across your devices. Mailbox FAQ 1. If I receive a different error message when trying to use the Nylas API, should I report the error to the developers? For technical questions about using the API, the best way to reach out to Nylas is to file a [Support Request](Once you've tried your best to reproduce the behavior, you can also send us feedback directly in our [Issues](board. 2. When I try to create a new email in Mailbox, I receive the message "Unable to create an inbox on {place}". How can I resolve this issue? This issue generally occurs when you try to create a new account or access your default account using an unauthenticated OAuth token. In this case, please delete and re-add the account to Mailbox. You can also send us feedback directly in our [Issues](board. 3. What's the best way to add more than 10 people to my contact list? If you receive an error saying that you cannot create contacts for more than 10 people, please ensure that the permission "Group contacts" is set to "on" under your account settings. You can also send us feedback directly in our [Issues](board. 4. If I try to go back to a list, Mailbox returns the error message "Couldn't fetch list objects". How can I resolve this issue? We're adding more robust error handling and feedback to Mailbox and working to resolve the root cause, but in the meantime, please send us feedback directly in our [Issues](board. 5. I have already resolved the issue, but I still keep receiving the same error message. What should I do? We're continuously improving our error handling and feedback processes. If you still receive the same error message after
