Serial number 45902. compiled May 22, 2011.More Information Six new high-schools, one middle-school and nine elementary schools in the South and West will be closed because of violence or other safety concerns. The Mid-Macon School District announced Thursday the closure of seven schools as of Oct. 1 because of overcrowding, security or safety issues. The schools are in Covington, Crenshaw, Franklin, Hardin, Lamar, Piedmont and Southern. At the same time, Clanton Middle School, a ninth-grade school with 3,500 students, and Stephens Middle School, a sixth-grade school with 1,700 students, closed. The district said it is working with Stephens to convert its students into sixth-graders and students at Covington to seventh-grade students at Clanton, which will be called Covington High School. The middle schools and the intermediate schools that feed into them will remain open, but only Stephens, Covington and Clanton will be operating as high schools. The remaining schools, which will be housed in middle schools, are: Gwinnett Elementary School, located at 2200 Marietta Drive in Norcross; The Atlanta schools in the Atlanta Public Schools system: As schools with more than 1,500 students, several high schools are affected by the closures. At least 1,500 students attend Chattahoochee High, a high school located at 306 Herndon Drive. Midtown High is located at 593 Bonnie Brae Drive. By the numbers: Covington Middle School: 1,700 students Clanton Middle School: 3,500 students Covington High School: 1,200 students George C. Foster High School: 738 students Midtown High:

website free of annoying and malicious software. A: I removed the malicious program using the Windows App store. Q: How to log loaded resources using Simple Injector Is there a way to create an instance of IResourceFilter and log the load of the resource? Here is an example of the scenario: public class GlobalResourceFilter : IResourceFilter { public void OnResourceLoaded(ResourceFilterContext context) { var resource = context.Resource; ... } } Because the resource is loaded from the database I need to be able to log the fact that it is being loaded. A: Yes, this is possible through the container instance. All the constructor parameters of an object are available after that instance is created. For example, inside your IResourceFilter implementation, you can log anything you want: public void OnResourceLoaded(ResourceFilterContext context) { var resource = context.Resource; Log.Info(resource.ResourceId, "resource loaded"); ...

} or // for example: Log.Info("Loading entity", entity.Id); var wrapper = entity.ToDTO(typeof(MyEntity)) .ToWrapper(typeof(MyEntityWrapper)); Do note that: The logging system of Simple Injector does not log directly to the output window. Instead, it will log to the container's global log system. I guess this is the reason the LoggerOptions of Simple Injector doesn't support configuring log levels.
