and Bathurst in Melbourne's north were left scratching their heads, after a colossal sinkhole developed in the middle of the road. Tracey Eddy, 53, was walking with her husband to the corner store when a sinkhole opened up, just yards from the road. The North Melbourne resident, had only been in the country for five months, but knew immediately what she had to do. The sinkhole appeared between 150m and 200m of the road, a deep void, which is suddenly revealed when traffic passes over it. "I just told him 'I've got to go down there'," Mrs Eddy said. "I stepped onto the footpath, went into the hole, and they just said 'get out of the hole'." She was wearing high 0cc13bf012
