2. Figure 4-7: In another example, this one using the _Marble_ image file, you can see that the low-contrast background has been deleted. In Figures 4-6 and 4-7, the _Marble_ image was placed into a slightly transparent, black background and then resized to show how easy it is to remove the background. 3. 3. Select Image > Adjustments > Invert. The image appears inverted with the background showing as transparent. All of the background turns a shade of gray. Depending on the brightness of the background, this effect may seem like the background is being thrown away. (You may want to reduce the brightness of the selected background to restore as much as you can of the original image.) 4. 4. Open the _Polyvore_ image and duplicate it. You can always use the `Shift+D` keyboard shortcut (that is, the Command key and the Down arrow key) to duplicate the selected image. 5. 5. In the new _Polyvore_ image, use the Move tool to scroll to the right side of the image, then press and hold the right mouse button and drag the image left as seen in Figure4-8 . The image is now moved to the left half of the image. 6. 6. Press the Delete key. This action removes the background. The entire image is black and white. The _Polyvore_ image is now completely empty; it is ready to be adjusted. You can resize and reposition it. You can even use other features to make this image match the color scheme of the _Polyvore_ website, which I'll show you how to do next. 7. 7. Select Image > Adjustments > Hue/Saturation. This option is found in the Adjustments panel and is used to change the color of the image and adjust the color balance. The selections in the menu bar and the preview window appear the same as in Figures 4-5, 4-6, and 4-7. A great place to start is with Lightness/Darkness, which is commonly used for making contrast adjustment. The adjustment in Figure 4-9 was used to lessen the overall amount of red in the image by increasing the dark gray values, while changing the Hue value to make the color blue

October 8, 2014 It's Monday! How about a beer? How about a recipe? How about...just a beer? Ha! OK, back to the recipe.... So you know how I LOVE those hyrbid seitan burgers? Well these are perfect for this time of year - crisp and a tad on the edge of spicy. The key to this recipe is not over-cooking the seitan, as that would turn it outta shape. We are just going to sauté and then serve as is. Side note - have you read Carol's book? It's a great read - enjoy! Mix together all of the seitan ingredients (noodle sauce, pizza sauce, garlic, onion powder, oregano and pepper). Heat a drizzle of olive oil in a large skillet. Once hot add the seitan and let it cook for 3-5 minutes. This will give you enough time to assemble your burger, so go ahead and assemble your meal. Cook for another 3-5 minutes, depending on how you like your burger cooked. Line the top of the pan with a paper towel, and then pour the water over the top (do not pour the water directly onto the seitan. You'll thank me later). Allow the seitan to steam for 5 minutes. Pierce the seitan with a fork to ensure the water seeps back into the seitan. The water will create steam as it returns to the skillet. Continue this process until the seitan is steaming and the water is back in the skillet, about 5 minutes. By this time your burger will be ready to eat. I choose to top the burger with some Italian dressing (which, by the way, is great on a lot of things, don't just believe the hype). Happy Monday! Crisp Seitan Pizzetta 1 1/2 lbs seitan 1/2 cup dry red wine Olive oil Sauce - Pizza Sauce, Spicy Red Sauce, Baked Beans -Prepare your seitan according to the instructions. Once your seitan is ready, spread it out evenly on a baking sheet or dish and place in the freezer for about 30 minutes. Once the seitan has frozen, remove it from the freezer and cut into bite sized strips. Place the strips in a bowl and mix with the red wine, red pepper flakes and seasoning.

Frederick Senior District The Frederick Senior District is one of the seven United States Health Service (USHS) Senior Districts which are part of the United States Public Health Service (USPHS). It comprises the counties of Frederick, Garrett, Allegany, Cumberland, Washington, and Maryland counties in western Maryland, and Maryland's Eastern Shore. The USHS Senior District Office is in Grantsville, Maryland, near Frederick. History Maryland was divided into seven USHS Senior Districts in 1978 when the USPHS was split into the Department of Health and Human Services and the Bureau of Health Manpower and Rehabilitation Services. The district was created for epidemiological purposes, in accordance with the Senior Districts Reorganization Plan of 1978, to include data collection systems for multiple tracking of federal employees serving in the areas affected. The policy adopted by Congress and signed by President Jimmy Carter in December 1980, pursuant to Public Law 96-500, is as follows: "No individual employed in the Senior Districts shall be granted or refused employment solely on the basis of his or her race, color, religion, national origin, or sex". The study districts were developed for the purpose of determining health manpower requirements to complete the provision of health services to the people served and to develop a mechanism of providing health care services to meet needs at locations other than centralized health services. Rand Paul said on Thursday that any effort to cut off U.S. support for the Syrian rebel force known as the Syrian Democratic Forces would be a "big mistake." "I think we need to look at the situation in Syria and make a decision, and we should be careful," Paul said in an interview on WABC radio. "There are so many things we've seen and lost control of, and as a country we have to watch out." Paul said the issue for him is the safety of Americans traveling to certain countries.
