A: The way your javascript is setup is this: when the page loads, the load() function will start right before the closing of the body tag. theonloadhandler is used after the load function completes, and it would then run, setting up the toggle function. the enclosing setTimeout overrides any time the load event runs again during the time the setTimeout runs, therefore, is not fired at time 0. at the end of the time span, the load event runs a second time, and the code runs again. This then causes the load event handler to execute again, setting up a third time window.

Fantasy Grounds is a feature-rich implementation of the popular RPG toolset. Fantasy Grounds is not a stand-alone tool for tabletop roleplaying and only a limited subset of the Fantasy Grounds features are included in this product. It is recommended to use this edition with the Starter Kit and the associated Dungeon Master's Toolkit. Dedicated and experienced Dungeon Master's can also use this product with the Core Set and the associated Dungeon Master's Toolkit and other creative tools. More details can be found on the official Fantasy Grounds page: Version 1.5.2 and up. Worn on the wrist they are slow and unattractive and people want a timepiece that is more art deco. After researching the future of technology I see no reason to continue to wear a watch on my wrist. Fortunately, technology has moved forward at a fast pace, and I have found a way to continue my love of analog and digital watches that are accurate, convenient and beautiful. Watch this video when you want to buy a watch but just don't know what watch to get. The Omega Seamaster Planet Ocean 719300 is an analog watch with a rotating bezel. As of now, I am the only Omega owner so this is what I know to be the best Omega. I like this watch because it can be worn with a turtleneck or a business suit, or even on a geek/nerd out anywhere. My favorite feature about this watch is the dual time zones. If you travel to multiple cities, this watch is perfect for you. The bezel can be turned to display two time zones on the same watch. At today's price, the Omega Seamaster Planet Ocean 7

What's new:

(geographic) The gap between the Euphrates, Tigris and the Koprulu (present-day Harbiya) in northern Syria in the 10th century BCE. (The MGS) It's a thirty-thousand-strong fairy tale. Hitler. The feared general Erwin Rommel, the desert fox. The British, the greatest strategists in the world, have made giant strides in the desert, led the military onslaught and, after agonising losses, pushed the Wehrmacht's lines back across the desert and south in the last six months of the war, reaching the Gulf of Sidra, towards Egypt, with dramatic results. The story of the desert war seems to have been set in place by some time in the 1930s. That's when, dressed in a swastika-decorated desert jacket and shorts, in his breakthrough novel Desert Fox, the young Erich Maria Remarque first revealed the secrets of how my country was defeated by Hitler, secrets he traced back to the story of his grandfather, German Captain Fritz von Briesen, a WWI veteran, who fought with the Germans, who returned to Germany, married and made his son a knight in the Hitler Jugend. The truth is, this dry landscape resembles, in a way, Austria, Croatia or Finland today. It has a proper population, a limited GDP, a limited-welfare culture, a café culture... We are used to the snow, waking to a silver landscape of century-old pine trees, beech, birch, elm and oak. This scenery, a paradise on earth, transforms one's feelings during a cold winter. From here one can view our land and still be moved by fresh, open spaces that are missing in our big cities. There is a saying that the desert is a land of ghosts, of desert foxes. In science and mathematics you always see pictures of Bavaria, Germany, France and the Austro-Hungarian empire. All these countries then were just as picturesque as this oasis. And everything was prepared for a brilliant intellectual journey. One of the first great mathematicians, Carl Gauss, who was born here, comes to mind. Who we think of as Germany's mathematician Hermann Weyl is half a German, half a Swiss (one imagines that as he grew up in the First Reich, he settled in Weyl's home country). Julius Wiechert was born in Wür

Drifter's Tales is a roguelike, adventure game where you will be introduced to a world of many bizarre locations, different side quests and the whole experience will be accompanied by the beauty of the historical paintings. But just before you start adventuring the story of this game will be entrusted to you: during the game, you will get to know its internal secrets and will gradually adapt to the environment and learn to use the powers of the world. The experience is recorded on the personal hero and will continue to carry you even after his death: from now on your character's will will be replaced with the main character and you will once again be able to experience everything that it had already been experiencing with your previous character. Features An immersive game world based on the painting Very detailed and rich textures Various side quests An interesting story about the heroes Rich and frequent gaming experience based on the player's presence A hero with his own personal story A story that continues after the death of the main characterQ: Using a column in a join/aggregate with a case statement on the same table I'm trying to join a table to itself using a case statement to enable me to pull out a list of groups from the join and group them by their Status (1,2,3), but I need to count all the records belonging to a particular group. I have tried a number of variations on the following to no avail, and have also tried more generic queries which work just fine, but seem too specific. select case when Position = 'Group1' and D2E = 'Sales' then D2E else NULL end as Group, count(Sales.ID) as SalesCount, D1.Position from dbo.Sales left join dbo.POSGroupPosition on D1.ID = dbo.POSGroupPosition.ID_POS join dbo.POSGroupPositionPosition on dbo.POSGroupPositionPosition.ID_POS = dbo.POSGroupPositionPosition.ID_POS left join dbo.POSGroupGroupPosition on dbo.POSGroupPositionPosition.ID_POS = dbo.POSGroupGroupPosition.ID_GROUP = g.ID where d2e = 'Sales' group by d2e
