A: If you use Saxon you have for $foo in //First/@* return $foo/current() which does what you want. However, if you want this attribute copied to the First, Second and Root elements then use for $foo in //First/@* return $foo/node() A: Saxon's built-in XQuery has a function called "value-of" that does just this. It works like this value-of($x, $target) Examples: Joe 42 for $x in //root/foo/text()
