The meeting is being held in San Diego, California during March 4-8, 1995. It will bring together several thousand active investigators, who attend this meeting each year, together with scientists who are less active but who are following their progress by means of abstracts read and reviews. This meeting has become one of the premier events in endocrinology. The planning and execution of the meeting has been totally taken over by the Endocrine Society. The meetings are organized by committees chaired by distinguished scientists who act as consultants to the more than 100 associate societies for the planning and implementation of the conference. The meeting has a major scientific sessions and poster sensons that present the most up to date information available in the field, so that early adopters are also presented. The five topics of this year's conference are: New Directions in Diabetes Mell
