Catalysts for the manufacture of polyethylene from ethylene and various hydrocarbon feedstocks are well known in the art. Such catalysts are usually in the form of a particulate, water-insoluble mixture of a support material, such as alumina, plus a catalytically active compound, typically a catalytically active metal compound, such as chromium oxide. The alumina support material is prepared by any of the known techniques of preparing alumina, such as cogelation

However, even though I am using the callback, the ckeditor is not creating my new id's. Here is my code: var editor = CKEDITOR.instances['comment']; var editorId = editor.replace(/__editable_ex_id_/, uniqueId(function() { return '__CKEDITOR_'+CKEDITOR.instances.namedItem(this.id)})); After this I simply try to save the value to my database like this: db.exec('UPDATE TABLE SET comment = "'.escape(editorId)."', comment_user = "'.escape(name)."' where id = "'.escape(post.id)."'', function (err, res) { if (err) { console.log(err); } else { console.log(res); } }); This then outputs: The next field 'comment' has missing value and the comment is a required field. 6d1f23a050
