He later was a general in the Greek army, serving in the army's 6th Army for a time. Biography Early life Theodoros Pangalos was born in 1896. The general entered the Hellenic Army in 1919, serving in the Greek army's 6th Army during the same year, from September to November. Political career In 1922, Pangalos was elected as a member of the Parliament of Greece for Agrigento. He served in this capacity from 1922 to 1923. His greatest period of military activity took place during the Axis–Allied air raid of August 15, 1940, where he was commended for his work in providing for the safety of the cities of Corinth and Volos. Afterwards, as the Allies retook the military leadership of Greece in December, 1940, Pang 6d1f23a050
