I have installed and i can see that my serial number is " 000000000000 " so it seems to be working fine. But when i try to connect to the net it says " internet connection time out " i suspect the OS is corrupted. It has been clean installed on a different partition (so now is dual booting) but i also tried and again the same problem. What do you think can be the problem? A: As it seems that you are trying to connect via internet or (if you have another computer / live desktop) to a server while being in a different operating system (dual boot) than the one you are using, the problem could be due to the network connections windows you are using. You should check and see if you have any unnecessary hardware / drivers installed which could cause this conflict. How to do this: In the start menu go to (Windows + R) (if it was ever installed, if not go to the start menu and type cmd.exe and then go to the Run -> type cmd and then Run -) Type cd /tmp (without the quotes. Type `dir` (this should list a folder called Temp, if not, type `cd temp` to be in that folder) Type `ping google.com` (hit the Enter key). If you have a folder called Ping, go to that and then type `cmd`, and type `dir`, find the folder called Ping, it may or not have the time in that folder (date and time can be changed as it seems they are set on the program (?), however, they can be cleared or changed using the tools like the date and time tool, or others similar) If you have no folder called Ping, in the Temp folder, or in the Temp folder itself, go to the folder called Temp, and type `cmd`, and in the Temp folder type `dir`, find the folder that says Temp, then open it, go into it, and paste the path in the above step 5, (if you need to use the quotes, just add them as `""`), copy and paste it in the step below "Find what you're looking for" Find what you're looking for Type `net stop ping` Type `net start ping` This could cause additional problems with the OS in which you are using, so you should try to set the network connections and ports as it was before (this could involve a complete removal and installation of the OS

Roanoke, Va. -- While some graduates of Virginia Tech's school of nursing have been setting up to practice as registered nurses on the busy hospital wards, there are also a lot of current students, struggling with their own memories of the shootings and the bombing, in a kind of grief. A lot of the students' parents also are struggling with their own memories of other murders and mass shootings. And there are some in Virginia like Douglas Norville, who feel remarkably relaxed, able to laugh about the whole thing in a seemingly hollow way. "We've had several visitors," says Norville, a first-year student at the school of nursing. "There are still boxes of lunch boxes in our basement. The bottom of the box has a little note in it from the teacher: 'To the Parents of the Children Shot in Virginia Tech.'" Norville puts his hand on the dining table and looks into the distance: "It's a valuable sort of education when you experience trauma 6d1f23a050
