I was really impressed with what they've accomplished with this new update. Impeccable in both simplicity, feature, and performance. On top of this, they are able to continue to improve on the existing features at a rapid-fire rate and expand upon them. They've become a priority in this upgrade. From an overall package perspective, the best value match on the market today. There are all kinds of improvements that are added with each update. But the main thing that I love the most about PS CS6 is the responsiveness enhancements and workflow enhancements. All of which are designed to facilitate working with large data loads as much as possible. I've been using Adobe Photoshop for the past 6 years. As a life long DnE I decided that I was sick and tired of having to constantly re-invent my work style every few months. I was getting a bit tired of having to spend countless hours installing library after library. Then comes Photography DnE. The interface is simple and refreshing. Love the 1 window concept. I can see my red eye removed with just the click of a button. It's so easy to pick up the new items. The upgraded editing tools done so well. Like Edit and Select. Now I'm using the 100% of my CPU to work. It's so amazing. I can pay attention and not be aware of my computer. A follow up to the last review of Photoshop, Adobe have improved the speed of the version of Photoshop previously reviewed as well as the upgrades and new features in version 7 now . although I don't own a copy of Photoshop CS6 I think it's worth it's price, I would recommend getting it for the free upgrades as some of the latest features in version 7 are not yet available in the previous version you can never have enough photo editing software

Shape layers don't just work with marquee selections. You can use them within the layer mask to give you more creative control of shapes and objects. The layers can be viewed or hidden, and an entire shape can be converted into a text mask, so you can draw directly on the shape which ends up as a text box. You can now use object tracking. So anything you move will follow; even as you draw. The selection handles and the area you are drawing can be locked to let your strokes be more precise. You can do a lot when it comes to design without having to use the direct selection tool. Believe it or not, the shape layer option will be used more in future programs, and will make your design look more professional and easier to work with. Adobe Photoshop's shape layers has much more to offer than the traditional marquee models. With the ability to create and place any shape or object of any shape in any part of the image, Adobe Photoshop allows you to create a more versatile and flexible way to style any image in Photoshop. When using Adobe Photoshop, the proper use of the shape layer is important.
Why? Because you've done a great job with the classic marquee selections that only work on the raster process. The new shape layers, however, can be placed within the layer mask to give you the tools necessary to edit your shapes and objects, and then select specific areas within the layer mask, such as the image itself. Adobe Photoshop allows you to edit any aspect of your layers and change the individual characteristics of your layers in shape layers. e3d0a04c9c
